IMPACT: State

Summary of Legislation: This bill prohibits an insurer from using a credit score in calculating the premium on a property and casualty insurance policy and makes a violation an unfair and deceptive act and practice.

Effective Date: July 1, 2002.

Explanation of State Revenues: The bill makes a violation of the requirements for using credit scores in underwriting certain insurance policies an unfair and deceptive act and practice in the business of insurance. Violation of these requirements may result in the levying of civil penalties. Civil penalties will be deposited in the state General Fund.

The civil penalties set forth are: $25,000 for each act or violation, or $50,000 for each act or violation if the person knew or reasonably should have known that he was in violation of this chapter. The remediation efforts undertaken by the person will be used in determining the amount of the civil penalty. In addition, if the person knew or reasonably should have known that he was in violation of this chapter, the Commissioner may suspend the person's license or certificate of authority. The total fiscal impact of this bill is not known.
